We are delighted to announce that the Legal Design Lab at Stanford Law School will become the new permanent home for the SRLN community, specifically the listserv, working groups, and conference. We believe that this is an especially appropriate place for the SRLN community to reside because of the Lab's commitment to user-centered design and Stanford Law School's broad commitment to access to justice. In recognition of the growth and maturity of this community, and indeed the movement, as part of this transition to the design lab, the SRLN community will be rebranded as the Access to Justice Network (A2J Network).

PLEASE SIGN UP FOR THE NEW LISTSERVE VIA THE A2J NETWORK JOIN FORM.

During this transition process, if you wish to share and receive current postings, please ALSO join the SRLN List. Once we have a critical mass on the new list, we will let people know to post to the new list.
